Returning to the normal routine of school

The dust now is settling from state's longest school strike

NORTH COUNTY EDITION

Post Staff Writer

Dust is settling slowly in the Jefferson Union High School District after the longest strike by school employees in California history, with teachers and staff trying to get back to something resembling normal operations in the face of stalled programs, mangled student assignments, missing equipment and recriminations among the school staffs.

The striking teachers, paraprofessionals and office personnel of American Federation of Teachers Local 1481 went back to work last Wednesday at the district's six schools, just nine weeks after they struck the district over pay, re-hiring of layed-off teachers and working conditions.

Approximately half the AFT teachers and students had gone back to school before the strike ended, out of economic or academic necessity, but the teachers who stayed out on the picket lines are painting a gloomy picture of financial loss to them, scholastic loss for their students and disorganization they've found in their classes when they returned.

Of most immediate importance to the students and their parents is the loss of academic credits during the long strike. The schools were open, with students going to class receiving one unit of credit per class toward graduation for every 17 days attended.

This didn't happen during the AFT's 13-day strike in 1978, with the educational program simply starting from the beginning when the teachers went back that time. But the AFT this year demanded, but didn't get in the final contract settlement, no-reprisal clauses against both students and striking employees, a lack that reportedly caused the AFT executive board to recommend rejection of the new contract last Tuesday, but which the membership ratified anyway.

The result for the students, many of whom felt they wouldn't learn anything in classes led by substitute teachers and others who simply extended their summer vacations, was that they have lost up to 15 units toward their diplomas.

But the AFT claimed the substitute teachers, 150 to 200 of whom earned $90 a day filling in for the regulars, were unqualified, and student reaction to the subs largely backed up the AFT opinion.

Oceana High School junior Lynn Stiles, who was active with the Students For Education group during the strike, said she went to school and admitted, "Some substitutes were pretty good teachers. We learned some bits here and there."

Oceana senior Dierdre Sims said all her class teachers but one were on strike and the one day she had gone to school she found "The sub was handing out stuff we'd done the first year here." She added that "The chemistry and physics classes were really messed up. The substitutes didn't do much there."

Senior Jonathan Sharp voiced the most prevalent concern for college-bound students, noting that the State Aptitude Test (SAT) for college entry will be Dec. 1 and that a lot of preparation time has been lost. "If we take the SAT after Dec. 1, we don't have a chance for school (of our choice)," he said.

Scholarships in colleges and universities are a major inducement for doing well in the SAT among high school students.

Perhaps typical of the some of the district schools hit hardest by the strike is Serramonte High in Daly City.

Serramonte probably had the highest number of teachers "go in" during the strike, driven by the lack of paychecks, with nine reporting for work in one day three weeks ago. Westmoor High in Daly City had the highest number of regulars, about 85 percent, who never went out on strike.

But the strikers who stayed out to the bitter end have reported finding what they consider chaos left behind by the departed substitutes, according to Tom Fitzpatrick, an English teacher at Serramonte who spent a busy nine weeks during the strike as the union contact with the press.

Among the stories Fitzpatrick said he's heard in the past week:

- Fifty-five history textbooks have disappeared at Serramonte.
- Records of student locker assignments were not kept by the physical education department.
- Many small items are missing from classrooms.
- Seventy-five percent of the woodshop equipment at Serramonte was found damaged, including a large, expensive planer that is almost inoperable; someone had tried to saw heavy logs with it. Woodshop instructor Steve Sheppler had returned to work three weeks ago as much to save the equipment as financial need and has worked day and night to repair the equipment that hasn't disappeared.
- The woodshop at Oceana should be closed down for repairs. Teachers say the equipment has been so badly damaged it's unsafe to use.
- Fitzpatrick said he found there is no master schedule of student class assignments at Serramonte. He explained that he found students in his reading laboratory who shouldn't be there and some missing who should be. He added that his carefully-hoarded supply of 31 copies of "Farewell to Arms" was cut by 18 in two weeks during his absence.

"I'd lose one a year, but you can expect that," he said bitterly.

Richard Colon, an advanced-Spanish teacher at Oceana, said a collection of flags of many nations in his classroom, valued at $150, wasn't there when he came back to work.

The district has calculated that teachers who remained out the full length of the strike lost an average of $4,925, or 24 percent of their annual salaries.

The teachers and clerical workers coped with their financial difficulties in many ways.

But through the strike and after the settlement they were unanimous in their opinion that although they preserved their union solidarity despite what they saw as a strong district effort to break it, their financial hardships are far from over.

Payday won't be until Dec. 15 for most of them, and that won't be for the full monthly pay period, since they didn't go back on the payroll until Nov. 6.

Several married couples who both teach in the district have been especially hard hit.

Dennis and Joan Roselli, teachers of the educationally handicapped at Oceana and Serramonte, respectively, found a house in Montara and closed escrow on it three weeks into the strike.

He did some substitute teaching at the Presidio in San Francisco five hours a day over the last few weeks of the strike and she did some part-time bookkeeping for a friend - and applied for food stamps Oct. 30.

They took out strike loans, available for up to $500 each and interest-free, from the California Federation of Teachers and the high school district credit unions, mindful that these have to be repaid.

But, Mrs. Roselli, said, "Dennis and I felt strongly about this. The public comprehensive high school is eroding away. We could easily have washed our hands of this and got other jobs at equal or better pay. But we decided to make out stand here. If our kids (the students) don't make it here, they won't make it anywhere."

A teacher at a private school before coming here, Mrs. Roselli said the difference between private and public schools now is that the private schools aren't cutting programs, while at Serramonte, for instance, the "school within a school" program has been cut from three years to one year.

"I'd love a union-free environment, if we didn't need one," she commented.

Many other of the approximately 150 teachers who stayed out worked at odd jobs, some as laborers at a chemical company in Menlo Park, others as substitute teachers elsewhere, others in offices.

A few, like Jefferson High English teacher Le Pacini, were able to put their efforts into avocations they had set for themselves.

Pacini is a dedicated sports addict and well-known Bay Area free-lance sportswriter whose regular weekly column appears in this newspaper and who has been published in many area journals on the athletic scene.

Pacini said he made back about three-fourths of his salary losses last year with his free-lancing, but didn't do as well this time.

His wife, Robin, a math teacher at Aptos Junior High School in San Francisco, also was on strike for six weeks this fall.

"We did a lot of things around the house," Pacini said.

He said he also got started on a novel he's been wanting to write — "A love story set in sports" — and has read four or five books.

But the financial difficulties are there, aided by bad timing, Pacini said. The transmission on his car and his garage door opener broke down during the strike. There went $1,200.

Although not a dues-paying AFT member, Pacini said he didn't cross the picket lines "because it wasn't worth the hassle. I have to work with these people. There are a lot of hard feelings after something like this and I didn't want my tires slashed."

BACK IN CLASS

All the students, teachers and staff were at school for the first time this year last week after settlement of the American Federation of Teachers Local 1481 strike against the Jefferson Union High School District, with all getting right to work. The beginning typing class of teacher Clo Braun, bottom photo, and American government class of teacher Rich Morosi at Serramonte High School in Daly City were typical. (Dave Dornias Photos)

The strike hit the AFT Business and Instructional Support Services unit people in different ways, too.

Terra Nova High paraprofessional Virginia Caldwell, one of 85 in the district, many of whom won full-time status and fringe benefits along with a small pay increase in the new pact, said she has had to borrow money during the strike, even though her husband is a banker.

"We're not going to recoup it, either," she said.

Sheryn Smith, a paraprofessional at Jefferson, noted that many skilled people in the district are in considerable demand outside. Working through a temporary employment agency herself, she said she has been on many jobs, such as in a chemical company credit department office, at $4.75 to $5 an hour. Her top as a paraprofessional in six years has been $4.21, she recalled.

"It's interesting to see how much more marketable you are on the outside," she commented. Her only problem has been that she waited a month to do outside work.

"I'm a month behind in salary. I kept hoping this thing would end," she said.

The financial strain on the members of the union bargaining team also was apparent.

The union paid $50 a day toward the expenses of the team, but that and a bit more went for a room at the Dunfey Hotel in San Mateo, where the team ate, slept and bargained for four weeks. As many as 12 of them at a time rolled out their sleeping bags in the one room.

Bernice Polonsky, a secretary at Serramonte and wife of Daly City City Attorney Albert Polonsky, said most of the costs came from their own pockets.

What everyone is saying now is that they hope the rancor will dissipate, at least some, now that the district and union have signed a two-year contract, and that education can resume on a full-time basis.

There are differences at the various schools about the feelings of animosity among the staff.

Oceana Principal Tom Mohr, whose school probably was hit hardest by the strike because percentages there of employees and students staying out were the highest in the district, the second day after the strike ended said, "I can feel it in the air. It's bad."

But Acting Serramonte Principal Al Campbell, who said he learned what it was like to feed a family of six children while out on strike in Florida, reported that his staff of teachers returned ready to put everything else aside and get on with the educational program.

"They're very professional ..." he said of the returning staff.

Shooting death in Daly City

A Daly City man was shot to death by his brother Sunday afternoon while another brother and a second witness watched in horror, according to police.

Police said the victim, Marvin Gardner, 22, and the brother who allegedly shot him, Lance Gardner, 20, apparently had argued over family matters earlier that day.

At 2:35 p.m., police said, Lance Gardner walked into the living room of the family home at 60 Lake Meadow Drive, opened the front door and fired at least two, possibly three, shots at Marvin Gardner as he lay sleeping on the couch, then fled out the door.

Police said one bullet entered the back of the victim's head.

Witnesses to the shooting, according to police, were a third, unidentified brother, who lived at the same address, and that brother's friend.

At the time of the incident, Marvin Gardner's 3-year-old daughter was sprawled on the floor below her sleeping father, but was not injured, and his wife was in another part of the house, police said.

Daly City police arrested Lance Gardner on a murder charge at about 11 p.m. Sunday, when he reportedly sought psychiatric assistance at Mary's Help Hospital in Daly City.

He is being held on $100,000 bail at the county jail in Redwood City.

Mayor and manager to speak

Daly City City Mayor Victor Kyriakis and City Manager David Rowe will be the featured speakers at a special joint membership luncheon of the Greater Daly City Chamber of Commerce and the Mission Merchants Association at noon Thursday in the Round-Up Room at the Cow Palace in Daly City.

Their topic will be "At Daly City Expense," about the proposed county Local Agency Formation Commission proposal to award the city of Brisbane sphere of influence control over the remaining uncommitted portions of San Bruno Mountain and to transfer the Bayshore area of east Daly City to Brisbane.

The LAFCO report, issued a month ago, has brought loud cries of protest from Daly City, which now provides fire services to much of the unincorporated area LAFCO would award to Brisbane, with charges that the LAFCO staff hadn't done its homework properly.

Reservations are $6 per person and are a must for the noon luncheon. Reservations may be made by calling the Chamber office, 755-8526.

IN APPRECIATION

Daly City's Operation Santa Claus chairman Ralph Hall, left, and Al Belotz present the Daly City Fire Department representatives, Battalion Chief John Roy and Captain Charles Rivera, a plaque: "In appreciation for your efforts and contributions to our community — to all the Firefighters of Daly City Fire Department for their years of service and cooperation." Operation Santa has, for nearly 30 years, with Fire Stations as collection and distribution points, supplied food, toys and good will to thousands of needy families in Daly City at Christmas. According to Hall, only new toys will be distributed this year. Donations to "Operation Santa Claus" may be sent to Al Belotz, 375 S. Mayfair St., Daly City.

Santa Clara's last golf escape

By HAL GEVERTZ

Spring is a wonderful time of the year.

Golf courses are receiving, with the help of Mother Nature, a new coat of green grass covering the scars of combat and toil from the year gone by.

It's always refreshing and invigorating playing golf when the ground has dried from the winter rains and your feet and golf balls travel over the soil and beautiful acres.

That happened to me recently when I played the Santa Clara Valley's last great estate, called the Villages, southeast of San Jose.

Among the colorful people attracted to this fertile country was William Wehner, a German immigrant who made his fortune exhibiting panaramas before the coming of movies.

In 1889 Wehner built a mansion and winery on 750 acres near Mt. Hamilton that was part of the original Rancho Herber Buena land grand.

The Cribana family took over the winery in 1945 and today Mirassou ages fine wines in its great French oak barrels.

I was in for an unexpected pleasure when I arrived there. The golf course looked like someone's prize front lawn that was meticulously groomed.

The Villages, named for the way the homes, condominiums and townhouses are built in clusters, gives one an intimate, small-town feeling with plenty of wide open space to go along with a wide spectrum of entertainment and recreation within this 1,200 acre retirement center.

The golf course covers 6,250 yards with a forgiving course rating of 69.4.

Built in 1968 with the architectural help of Robert Graves, it was his thought to put together an uncomplicated course to be used by senior citizens that want a satisfactory test of golf. But they also want to have sufficient strength and stamina after the game to proceed with the rest of the day's activities without becoming over-tired.

The pleasant Village layout meets these requirements.

The golf course moves along semi-wide fairways with a horizontaland vertical playing program on level to slight hillsome terrain.

A dazzling variety of trees, including olive, almond, willow, silver-birch and cypress, contribute grace and shade to the area. Although not over-powering, they are bothersome on many holes.

Eight small and large fish-laden ponds are distributed throughout the course. One of these is paralleled to the right side of the 360-yard par four dodleg seventh. The short cut to the green is to stay close to the water that cuts a wet hazard to a brow of a hill where the green is located.

But the unexpected "yielding" shot on this hole would be to hit a wide ranging hook-tee-drive. That's because you will find youself in the Village gardens rented by many green-thumbers.

The 491-yard par five ninth that proceeds downward to the clubhouse has a pond on the right halfway to the green and a large assortment of trees on the left. A large trap on both sides of the slightly raised green sets up this attractive hole.

The 145-yard par three fourth has fine trees and trap, greenside coverage and the 137-yard 11th is a pleasing par three with a pond on the right near the green and a couple of flat bunkers to pass by safely for par playing.

My favorite was the 475-yard par 5, 16th. A drive on this level fairway has to avoid homes on the left and a large weed-infested pond on the right. A solid drive and fairway wood should put you to the point of the angle right where the water, small trees and five strategically placed traps tighten up the green for any incoming approach shot.

Sand bunkers are readily available on all holes. Some of the bunkers on the fairways were out of the field of action, unless wild and uncontrolled playing golfers were on the scene. The medium to large greens were groomed for smooth rolling and peerless putting. But a few unobserved breaks will come into play on some of their raised and slated putting tables to take a par or birdie.

The Regent

Samuel Chandler

By ROBIN MOELLER
Commissioner of Publicity
Serramonte High School

After seven and a half weeks, the Jefferson Union High School trike finally ended.

The strike broke the record as the longest teachers strike in the history of the state of California.

As many as 2,000 students were reported to have been absent during the duration of the strike. However, many of these students aren't being accounted for returning to the Jefferson public high schools.

Quite a few have evidently transferred to private schools.

Although the striking teachers have returned to their classrooms, Serramonte still is missing a Spanish teacher. All the Spanish classes are now being taught by a substitute teacher and is run as a study period. Hopefully the school will get hold of a permanent Spanish teacher soon.

On Nov. 6, when the strike ended, a minimum day was scheduled without notice and students were dismissed from school at 10:30 in order for the teachers to be able to vote at 11 on the ending of the strike.

Things then started to get back to normal. Lockers were issued during fifth period in the main office. Varsity and frosh-soph basketball teams had their sign-ups in the gym at the beginning of lunch.

The girls' basketball teams are looking for a coach.

The library now is open during lunch period. Passes may be picked up before school or between morning classes on a first come first serve basis.

There's going to be a drivers education course during the second quarter. Sign-ups were in room 125 at the beginning of lunch. Older seniors were selected first since there was only room for 34.

No more lunch cards will be issued until Dec. 1. Bring a sandwich or money from home

Applications for spring semecder at Skyline are available from Mrs. Cahill.

Spirit Week went along great. Tuesday was 1950s day; Wednesday was hat, T-shirt and button day; and Friday was the school spirit day where everyone wore the school's colors, red, black and white.

The seniors did a good business on the Homecoming Day flower grams. They sold the carnations for 35 cents each and a discount if you bought more. They were sent out to first period classes.

Homecoming elections were announced at the dance. A lot of preparation went into this year's Homecoming.

The Executive Board is in charge of Homecoming. They had to set up the concession at the Homecoming game — where they sold hot dogs, drinks and candy. They set up the disc jockey of Disco Five Disco for the dance. They had the dance room decorated and organized.

The tickets were $2 with a Student Body Card, $2.50 without a Student Body Card and $3 at the door. Before the dance they had a lot of tickets sold. There will be more on Homecoming in next week's article.

The bowling club voted for club officers. There was no bowling last Monday due to the Veterans Day holiday.

The Executive Board will sponsor the first assembly of the year Nov. 15 at 1:30 in the gym.

Seniors planning to go to a California university must get their applications in this month. Dec. 1 is the last day this year for seniors to take the Scholastic Aptitude Test.

Student Body Cards were still on sale last week for $5.

They are calling the movies' latest incursion into the life of Jesus of Nazareth "a film for Bible purists," as contrasted to such spectacles as Cecil De Mille's "King of Kings" of Stevens' "The Greatest Story Ever Told."

Entitled simple "Jesus," the film comes straight from the Gospel of Luke. In it there are no sub-plots about Herod or Salome or Barabbas, or the Sun of Hur or even about the Virgin Mary and her husband, Joseph.

Judas Iscariot's motives are not probed. No one pays any attention to Thomas' doubts or the Pilate's thoughts. There is no speculation about Peter's mother or Jesus' brothers.

In short, the film follows the Gospel of Luke.

For this reason it is more like a documentary than a film. As a picture it is simple and beautiful with a cast of hundreds who live in the HolyLand.

Let the moviegoer beware, however. "Jesus" does not contain episodes that are found in Matthew, Mark or John but not in Luke. So don't look for the Mary and Martha story or the encounter with the woman at the well.

Don't be disappointed because Jesus does not assign his mother to the Apostole John, or pass through the transfiguration.

Even without these and other familiar episodes the film is worth every bit of time and effort it takes to attend the movies these days.

It illustrates that the story of the "Man of Nazareth" needs no Hollywood embellishments, no superimposed characters, phony psychology or personifications to make it a dramatic and dynamic story.

The movie "Jesus" also illustrates why such a forceful character as Elizabeth I took time in her coronation to pay tribute to Jesus and why Ralph Waldo Emerson said that the writers of the Gospels ploughed their Lord's name into history.

The makers of "Jesus" have laid plans to create other films using the words and episodes of the Bible as the script. The stories will be told simply as the Biblical writers reported it.

Naming the Bible as the "source book for living, for values ... for our society," the producer, John Heyman says, "There is nothing more worthwhile to do than communicate the Bible."

Everyone who has found drama in the careers of Jeremiah and Amos, and in the romance of David and Abigail and pathos in the death of Saul will enjoy films that present the simple, beautiful stories of the Bible

LOOKING FOR SMOKE-STOPPERS

Dick Fox of the South San Francisco Branch American Cancer Society and chairman for all pharmacists in the San Mateo County is urging Sandy Silva to get her friends to join the Great American Smokeout Nov. 15. Pledge posters can be found in all the local stores and post offices. The pledge indicates that the person will take a day off from smoking and will be given a pledge card as a reminder. Fox, the owner of Brentwood Pharmacy, pledges to give a lollipop to each person who will not smoke on that day. He also will continue as he did in former years — not sell cigarettes for that day.

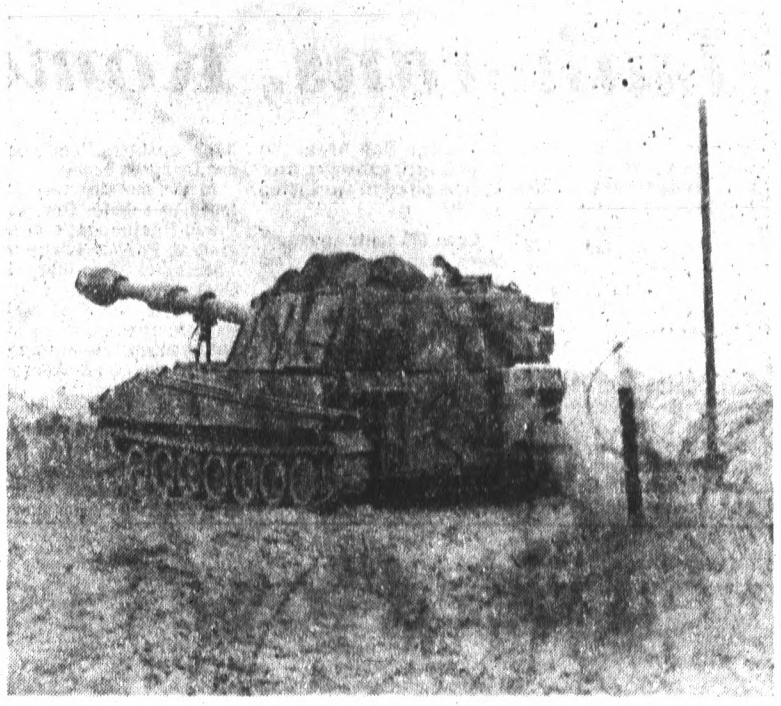
SURVEY POLE

Private First Class Victorio Salvatin of Daly City, holds a survey pole as direcdional control is established at an artillery location along the East German border.



READY TO MOVE OUT

A M109A1 howitzer on duty at the border. Because of the need for rapid mobility to keep up with the Cavalry regiment, the firing position is not dug in.

Youth could make first reply

A Daly City soldier's unit isn't likely to fire the first artillery rounds of any new conflict in Europe. But it has an excellent chance of firing the first reply.

Private First Class Victorio A. Salvatin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Victorio Salvatin, 127 Morton Drive, Daly City, is a member of one of the Howitzer batteries of the 11th Amored Cavalry Regiment.

This unit's howitzers are all stationed within a few miles of the East German border, and they are ready to fire their 155mm shells on short notice, if required.

Commenting upon his border duty, Salvatin said, "The border duty is good training, but 30 days away from 'civilization' is boring."

The unit is "rotated" away from the border upon occasion. This allows the conduct of "live fire" training, and also lets the soldiers relax and see a bit more of Germany than the tightly controlled border.

Commenting upon Germany, Salvatin said, "It is a beautiful country . . . The area is mountainous and cold, but the women are nice and the countryside is fantastic!"

Salvatin, who enlisted ". . . for experience," commented on his future plans. "Right now I'm taking college courses. I plan to be a civilian surveyor or civil engineer."

He is a 1978 graduate of El Camino Senior High in South San Francisco.

Dialogue between Lutherans, Roman Catholics

By ARVILLE FINACOM

All Hallow's Eve, 1979. Reformation Day, 462. Year One of significant modern ecumenical dialogue between local Lutherans and Roman Catholics.

The anniversary year already begun and concluding Oct. 31, 1980, marks the 450th commemoration of the presentation to the Holy Roman Emperor Charles V at the Diet of Augsburg in June 1530 of a "confession of faith" by seven German princes and representatives of two free cities who styled themselves "Evangelicals" and followed the teaching of Martin Luther in accepting scriptural authority rather than that of the Pope.

The Augsburg Confession, as it was called, listing 28 "Articles of Faith and Doctrine", took two hours to read in its entire German text. The Emperor made no immediate comment. Later Charles asked "Roman" theologians, those accepting the authority of the Pope, to prepare a response.

Several were submitted to him for consideration, all vehement and unremitting. A month after the reading and publication of what has come to be the cornerstone of Lutheranism, Charles did permit a milder response to be read. But it was never published. In effect, the Church in Rome never replied "officially" to the questions posed at Augsburg.

Across the intervening centuries, theologians on both the protestant and Roman Catholic sides have elevated the Confession to a position of prominence as a "protesting" document. Current study, especially in recent years since Vatican II authorized modern dialogue between the two largest Christian denominations, indicates that it is possible to view the Confession in terms of being a profession promoting unity.

And that's the view taken of it by participants at the recent October 31 clergy conference, "Seeking the Truth in Love: A Fresh Look at the Augsburg Confession", sponsored by the Lutheran/Roman Catholic Task Force of the San Francisco Bay Area, the largest such gathering ever to take place in the United States.

Some 150 were expected. More than 250 came. Not all were clergy. Lay people were present. So were seminarians from both denominations. Backdropped by banners proclaiming "oneness in the Spirit", they met in the great ground floor hall under St. Mary's, San Francisco's showplace Roman Catholic cathedral. "Maybe next time we'll be back upstairs," quipped one Lutheran leader.

In the morning they listened to debate. Rev. Dr. Toivo Harjunpaa, theologian at Pacific Lutheran Theological Seminary in Berkeley examined the content of the Confession within the context of Lutheranism. Reformation historians and Roman Catholic spokesperson, Dr. Elizabeth Gleason, professor at the University of San Francisco, explored the many Roman responses to the Confession both at the time and in the years since.

Devotional fellowship was shared through brief Bible readings and rousing hymn singing of songs stressing church unity. In years past the same selections might have been considered patently protestant. Meal fellowship was arranged on a ZIP code basis, designed to put Lutherans and Catholics from the same areas together for informal lunchtime dialogue. "Millbrae," "Montara" and "Pacifica" shared reactions.

The afternoon panel discussion devoted to an understanding of the current state of dialogue between the denominations featured, in addition to Drs. Harjunpaa and Gleason, Rev. Kenan Osborne, OFM, and Lutheran professor Rev. Dr. Vance Eckstrom.

Father Osborne teaches systematic theology at the Franciscan School of Theology which is a member of the ecumenical Graduate Theological Union of seminaries and schools of divin-

Distant last for write-in

A final semi-official count of write-in votes issued by the county elections office gives Maxine Gonsalves 960 votes, putting her a distant last in her quest for a seat on the Jefferson Union High School District Board of Trustees in the Nov. 6 board election.

Winners of the race for the two seats on the board were the incumbents, Mrs. Betty Schultz of Daly City, with 7,190 votes, and Mrs. Ruth Boudinot of Pacifica, with 7,053. Mrs. Dorothy White of Daly City, making her second attempt as a candidate, finished a strong third with 5,943 in a losing effort.

Mrs. Gonsalves of Pacifica, active with a parents' group that sought to end the recent 10-week teacher and office personnel strike in the Jefferson district, joined the race in late September, three weeks into the strike but too late to file for a place on the ballot.

The vote will be canvassed and certified officially by the county Board of Supervisors at its meeting today.

The county elections office said the reason for not reporting write-in results until Friday was because the large rolls of ballot paper in the voting machines had to be removed and the votes counted by staff.

A MONSTER?

No, it's a common cat flea that took time to pose for an electron microscope portrait. The swordlike appendages are the flea's combs which slant backward.

Pets need help

By DR. DAVID R. BARNETT

So your dog has fleas.

Don't fret, they join the best of families.

Will going out to the local supermarket and buying one of those flea collars solve the problem? Well, it might help, as long as the problem isn't too severe and if your pet's environment isn't infested with more fleas ready to take over as soon as their brothers and sisters pass into that Great Flea Heaven in the sky.

Conversations with veterinarians from Alaska to Florida indicate that most pets need additional help in combatting this most persistent of parasitic pests. The problem is multifold.

First of all, fleas have been around since prehistoric times, and they have had a lot of practice at surviving whatever threatens them.

In bygone days, evolutionists speculated that fleas were probably winged creatures, rather like tiny gnats.

According to one theory, dogs and cats could feel the wings as the flea traveled through their fur so evolution decided on a much more ingenious plan: a pair of hind legs so powerful that the flea could leap up in cartwheels, using its appendages as grappling hooks, and landing on the host animal undetected.

The cat flea, one of our most common, can leap from 18 to 36 inches with ease. For a human this would be comparable to leaping over the 555-foot Washington Monument.

Another problem is that fleas are extremely adaptable to most any environment. Naturally, areas with warm, moist climates are the best breeding ground for fleas; but it's been found that fleas can remain frozen for considerable periods of time and still thaw out to be as good as new.

including our warmest wishes to you...

Dialogue

ity in Berkely. Dr. Eckstrom is one of the faculty at the University of Santa Clara.

Rev. Dr. Ted Peters, chairman of the Lutheran/Roman Catholic Joint Task Force and also a professor at PLTS, convened the conference, moderated the discussion and introduced the numerous speakers who brought both greetings and information.

Perhaps the greatest thrust of the event was towards further Lutheran/Roman Catholic dialogue at the parish level. Eckstrom and Osborne both pointed out that the basically clergy conducted conversation in the United States since Vatican II has resulted in publication of five volumes defining areas in which theological agreement may be possible. But this has not yet filtered down to the parish level.

Partially because of this, last March, Lutheran and Roman Catholic bishops in the United States established a joint goal: to devote time and effort on the parish level during 1980 to get to know each other better. The Los Angeles Lutheran/Roman Catholic Committee, Institute for Changing Ministries, devised a structure for such local conversation.

Larry Mulally, lay worker in the Office of Ecumenical Affairs, Roman Catholic Archdiocese of San Francisco, introduced the Los Angeles packet to conference participants.

Titled simply, "Lutheran Roman Catholic Dialogues" and highlighted by a whimsical stick figure drawing of a circle of celebrants leaping in praise of the Holy Spirit shown as a dove carrying the olive branch of peaceful unity, the "particiant's journal" consists of discussion starters in four areas: "Sacraments and Rites"; "Salvation: Good Works"; "Scripture and Authority," and "Nature of Church."

According to Mulally, the dialogues, appropriate for Lenten presentation, are meant to be "simple, stimulating and challenging ways to help Lutherans and Roman Catholics alike explore and share the common things that bind us within the body of Christ." Further information can be obtained by writing Lutheran/Roman Catholic Committee of Los Angeles, 817 W. 34th St., Los Angeles 90007.

Perhaps the most interesting outcome of the local clergy conference was an increased understanding by many of the participants that human ordered forms in both the Roman Catholic and Lutheran expressions of Christianity have undergone significant change in the 450 years since Augsburg and that the wall of denominationalism built during the 16th Century which separates Christians not only into sects but gives rise to cults as well must be seen as one solely of human design. As such, human effort can remove it.

Summed up, the answer given to one participant's question concerning the ministry of the "whole" church to the "whole" world seems to say it all: ". . . unity within a body of faith which permits varying traditions, pluralism in practices, even disagreement on doctrinal issues among those of equally deep scholarship."

That kind of unity probably won't be here tomorrow, but it may come in our children's lifetimes. Certainly the coming together last month marks a long delayed beginning.

Luncheon, dinner and Sunday Brunch at LEHR'S GREENHOUSE in San Francisco have always been very special dining treats; and now Head Gardener MURRAY LEHR has another reason to feast among the flowers, plants and trees. For a limited time, guests may obtain a free 9 by 12-inch Computer Photo Portrait just by giving their dining room check to the photographer in the adjoining Hotel Canterbury lobby. If you're among those who appreciate good food in sophisticated surroundings, DAL BAFFO European restaurant in Menlo Park is sure to be on your list. To share your happy discovery with friends, social or business associates, owner chef VINCENZO LO GRASSO has facilities for private groups. If you've already discovered LES JON'S in Burlingame, where authentic Basque food is served for lunch and dinner by famed Chef ARNAUD, then you can find your way there easily. But to assist newcomers, there's a big, new sign on the building above the obscure doorway, which is adjacent to Hyatt Cinema on Old Bayshore. A visit to NICK'S restaurant at Rockaway Beach, Pacifica, will show you why the legion of loyal patrons who have made this restaurant famed over the years, regard the exciting surfside vista of the Pacific Ocean as a sensational setting for enjoying breakfast, lunch, dinner or cocktails as they gaze through panoramic picture windows.

Wong's Szechuan and Hunan dishes

WONG'S SZECHUAN and HUNAN Chinese restaurant, located at 2nd Avenue and 'B' Street in San Mateo, is a family restaurant owned by Chef DOON WONG, whose many house specialties continue to attract notice. KGO Radio recently recommended the restaurant on the "Talk Show." Specials include pot stickers, Moo Shu Pork with Pancakes, Hunan Beef, Chicken in orange flavor and Eggplant with garlic sauce. Both spicy and non-spicy style. Dinner specials at ALFREDO'S in downtown San Mateo include a choice of Prime Rib, Roast of Chicken or Veal Parmagiana, served with pasta and French bread, for only $4.95 after 5 p.m. seven days a week. Senior Discount Cards can even clip an extra 10 percent off for anybody over 60. SCOTTY CAMPBELL'S pianobar whiz, ALAN DOTE, believes his new 24-track recording studio in Millbrae is one of the Peninsula's largest. Huevos Rancheros (three eggs on a tortilla, topped with a sauce of green chiles, tomatoes, onions and melted cheese) and Chorizo Con Huevos (three scrambled eggs with Mexican sausage) are tasty lunchtime specialties at LA PINATA in downtown Burlingame. All are served with refried beans or Mexican rice, salad, and corn tortillas. The mellow song stylings and guitar accompaniment of "NANCY" KRAUSE suits the musical mood of guests in the cozy wood-paneled cocktail bar lounge of THE CYPRESS HOUSE on Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights from 8:30 p.m.

Bayhill Lounge has '2 for 1' Sat. lunch

In response to popular demand, genial General Manager MIKE of BAYHILL LOUNGE, San Bruno, announces they will be serving lunch on Saturdays, in addition to Mondays through Fridays. As a special introductory offer, Mike is offering 2-for-1 lunches on Saturdays only through Dec. 1. With the coupon from today's Bright Lights section, you can order two lunches, pay only for one (whichever costs more). PHIL LEHR'S Pay-By-Ounce STEAKERY, on the lower level of the S.F. Hilton Tower, is a favorite dining place for members of the 49ers football team; they love Phil's unique method of cutting steak to order — any size — and charging for the dinner according to the weight of the steak. The Italians call it "basilico" and it's simply "basil" to many others. Either way, when this herb is mixed with garlic and blended with pure olive oil it becomes known as Pesto Sauce. And at ROMANO'S in Rockaway Beach, Pacifica, you'll find authentic Spaghetti with Pesto Sauce is one of ENRICO ROMANO'S house specialties. If you've visited Germany as a tourist and enjoyed the food, then the short drive to Moss Beach will prove a happy experience when you stop for lunch or dinner at TILLIE'S 'LIL' FRANKFURT German and continental restaurant. Owner TILLIE SCHOLTZ does all the cooking, using only the freshest ingredients available, from traditional German recipes.

Gong's is small but big on specialties

Would you believe that a smallish Chinese restaurant could offer over 137 individual Chinese specialties, four combination Chinese dinners, 11 American-Chinese dinners, eight individual combination lunches and dinners, plus a couple of super Oriental Wo Choy dinners (for five or more)? Well, that's what you'll find at GONG'S Chinese restaurant in the Brentwood Shopping Center, South San Francisco ... Thanksgiving is always a very special day at ROSEBUD'S ENGLISH PUB, in the heart of San Francisco's Geary St. "Theater Row" and this year will be no exception. Chef Joe Rivas' special holiday menu, served from 3 to 10 p.m., will spotlight traditional Thanksgiving favorites such as Roast Turkey and Baked Ham, plus year-round favorites like Prime Ribs and Poached King Salmon ... Here's good news: If you're among the many "regulars" of VINCE'S Fresh Seafood Depot (adjacent to VINCE'S Italian and Seafood restaurant) and have missed seeing JIMMY, he's reported to be recovering nicely from a sudden illness and is expected to be back on deck soon. In the meantime, Jimmy's colleague, Sonny, and others in the crew are on tap to assist and serve . . . When genial co-owner/chef DANNY YUNE goes into action at the hibachi tableside grill at his popular HANA JAPAN Japanese Steakhouse in San Mateo, patrons around the communal table are treated to a sight of culiary skill and dexterity.

THE DIET CORNER

By ELISE GENDAR

What's a diet-lemma???

It just may be that you are uncomfortably experiencing one at this very moment.

You may be squeezing yourself into some one's mold and someone's else diet, and you just don't fit comfortably.

The reason why is very clear, if you've ever scanned a crowd of people as they surge toward you.

We are all different — in looks, posture, body configuration, and dress.

Most important of all, our personalities differ as well, and diet is very much a matter of personality.

The best of diets is the most flexible of diets; it adjusts to the many personalities of the many people it will help.

That is why following a program that prescribes amounts of what you should eat at each meal protects you from the snares and traps set for you enroute.

Knowing that you should have protein, your friendly diet tells you how much — but what kind is up to you.

It praises skim milk, for the complete nutrition that skim milk contains. But then it disengages and puts you in the driver's seat — letting you eat it or drink it. (You eat it in a recipe for diet ice cream for example.)

At the other extreme, if you cannot be comfortble unless wrapped comfortingly in a strict program, such as a diet can be lined up a week ahead of time with every meal and every portion written down. Relieved of choice, you may proceed to masticate merrily through the days.

Don't confuse the virtue of flexibility for the diet vice of permssiveness.

When you bend a diet, you should be able to bend the variety of foods, never the principle nutrients or amounts.

Best way to start varying your diet is with this recipe. It will give you a taste of what I mean and make breakfast more interesting.

SAUCEPAN PIE

1 peeled apple, thinly sliced
Apple pie spice to taste
1 or pkts. artificial sweetener
1 oz. swiss cheese
1 slice toast

Put apple slices in pan, almost cover with water. Add spice and artifcial sweetener. Bring to boil, simmer until tender. Place cheese on toast, top with apple slices. Sprinkle with cinnamon. Broil until bubbly.

And if you are contemplating the fine arts of dieting, before you begin seriously consider the program you have selected as it applies to your psyche, or will it chafe and rub as you wear it for a lifetime?

Diets really last that long, and the good ones become like old clothes, more and more comfortable as you go along.

I'd love to hear about your diet experiences. Just write to me at The Diet Workshop. And if you would like a copy of Dieting Tips, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to: 2533 Taraval Street, San Francisco, 94116.

Nell Norton

Good morning, good clooks.

What product will clean glass and metal, cut grease, absorb cooking odors, give clothes a better rinse, then zip up a marinade, make buttermilk, put "news" in salad and create an unusual pie?

The answer is vinegar.

All this information came from a booklet which is just filled with household tips and interesting recipes.

The vinegar pie recipe attracted my attention and it is a delicious treat; so rich and sweet that you serve very small slices and therefore it goes a long way. Another nice things about this dessert is that you usually have the main ingredients in the house, with the exception of the frozen pie shell.

VINEGAR PIE

4 eggs
1½ cups sugar
¼ cup butter or margarine, melted
1½ tablespoons cider or white vinegar
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
1 9-inch frozen pie shell, defrosted

Preheat oven to 350 degrees.

In a large mixing bowl combine the four eggs, one and one-half cups sugar, fourth cup melted margarine or butter, one and one-half tablespoons vinegar and one teaspoon vanvilla; mix well. Pour into pie shell. Bake until firm, about 50 minutes.

Cool on a rack.

Serve garnished with chopped nuts or whipped cream, if desired.

YIELD: One 9-inch pie.

The booklet is titled "Versatile Vinegar" available for 25 cents in coin from the Vinegar Institute, P.O. Box 720215, Atlanta, GA 30328.

Regents just game away from title

Regents' Robert Williams

By MIKE FICHER

Perhaps, for the sake of instant recognition, Serramonte High's football team ought to create a catchy nickname for its unsung — yet North Peninsula League-leading-defensive unit.

After all, the Regent stoppers have been as effective as such colorfully named pro counterparts as the Steel Curtain, the Purple People Eaters, and the Silver Rush. So effective that Serramonte now needs only a victory or tie in next week's season-ending clash with Half Moon Bay to capture its second consecutive NPL championship.

Once again the defense played a significant role in Serramonte's title quest as they shut down visiting Terra Nova's vaunted passing attack and rushing offense to lead the Regents to a 27-7 win Saturday.

Although the statistics tell the story — six turnovers, 98 total yards, 16 rushing, and TN quarterback Rick Miller, who had been averaging better than 180 air yards a game, held to only 82 — the way the Regent defenders do it is often amazing.

They are not big. Many times the Regents feature two 130-pound linebackers and a couple of 160-pound linemen.

But Serramonte possesses a great deal of speed and an unnerving ability to gang-tackle. One jarring tackle turned a close contest into an easy Serramonte win Saturday.

Chuck Thompson, all of 125 pounds, demolished the Terra Nova return man on the second-half kickoff, knocking the ball loose. Alert Karl Knapp scooped up the fumble and scampered 24 yards for what proved to be the game-winning touchdown, giving the Regents a 14-7 lead.

"He gave him a hit that usually a 220-pounder gives you," said Serramonte Coach Ken Cook. "He has been fantastic on special teams. He makes the tackle on the kickoff more than 70 percent of the time. That is a remarkable statistic."

With momentum now on their side, dhe Regents added another score on an 88-yard drive, culminating in a 26-yard touchdown pass from Robert Williams to Eric Jones. The defense took it from there.

Limiting league-leading receiver Mile Childs (seven catches per game) to only two receptions, the Regents made life miserable for the usually pass-happy Miller. The backfield of Jones, Joe Nobles, and Darryl Williams blanketed Tiger receivers, offering Miller little alternative but to overthrow or eat the ball.

"Darryl is the key," Cook said of his monster back. "But Joe really played a superb game defensively. He did everything expected of him offensively, and played his best overall game of the year."

Indeed, the usually inconsistent and turnover-prone Regent offense gained 296 yards, 192 in the air, with Nobles snaring six passes for 98 yards.

"We worked on throwing the ball a lot this week," Cook said. "What a lot of people don't realize is that we have a first-year kid playing quarterback (Robert Williams). He's big and strong, and for a new kid, he's playing extremely well. He's getting more confident each week, and I think he'll be a real find for a small college."

With a second consecutive title only one win away (though the Regents had been picked to finish fifth in a coaches' preseason poll), Cook noted that HMB will be a tough opponent because it matches up well with the Regents.

"They play with a lot of emotion, and so do we. But there is such a fine line between just the right amount of emotion and the right amount of control. We have to play with emotion, but not lose control. This week we had the right balance."

Only one team, Jefferson, has a chance to overtake the Regents. should the Indians defeat El Camino and Serramonte lose to HMB, each would possess 5-2 records, but Jeff would move into regional competition because of a victory over its Daly city rival.

Westmoor can also tie for the title, but the Rams lost to both clubs, negating any possibility of post-season advancement.

Rodgers sparks the Indians

By GREG QUIGLEY

Richard Rodgers didn't do too much when Jefferson High met Oceana in a North Peninsula League football contest Friday.

But his presence on the field gave the Indian attack yet another weapon — something the Shark defense would probably not like to hear about any more, thank you.

Rodgers returned to action after missing time with an injury. Jeff had missed him.

Even though Rodgers rushed for a mere two yards on one carry, his presence helped carry Jeff to a resounding 35-9 win over host Oceana.

"We're a completely different team with Richard Rodgers in there," said Indian Coach Lou Sanchez, after his troops ended a two-game losing string, staying in contention for an NPL title.

The Indians' lightning offense was led by senior fullback Sam Smith, a reliable runner all season; he picked up 131 yards on 13 carries. Junior Doug Cheatum added 119 yards on 22 rushes. Cheatum, last season's leading NPL rusher, surpassed the 100-yard mark for the first time this year.

"I didn't have to run," said Rodgers. "I just called the plays and the holes were there. We didn't run our veer offense because my knee was still a little sore. We just ran straight hands-offs and dives. The line came out to play today. They were fired up. We have to thank them for this win."

"I finally had a good game," Cheatum said. "Richard took a lot of heat away from me today. Usually they have two or three people keying on Smith and me, but with Richard, they can't do that."

Jefferson also played strong defense. Oceana quarterback John Brown had a difficult time finding open receivers, completing only 12 of 32 passes for 183 yards.

Midway through the fourth period, with Jeff leading 28-7, Oceana was driving for a second score. The Sharks eventually had a first and goal at the five-yard line. After three rushing attempts, Oceana was still short.

On a fourth and one-half yard to go, Jeff defensive lineman Jay Williams, along with other defenders, stopped durable Shark fullback Solomone Havili short of the goal line.

Early in the game, Jefferson had wasted no time putting its first score on the board. The drive went 80 yards in nine plays, culminated by Cheatum's score from one yard out. The Indians added another score, Smith's first of three TD's on the afternoon, midway through the second quarter, to lead 14-0 at the half.

Smith led Jeff to a 28-0 lead in the third period by rambling to scores from 17 yards and 39 yards out.

Ram stop corps tops EC

By JOE RODRIGUEZ

Westmoor High's blitzing defensive unit burned visiting El Camino for two touchdowns Friday, sparking the Rams to a 28-15 North Peninsula League victory — and keeping Westmoor's NPL title hopes alive.

"We were keying on their backs," said Ram linebacker Mike Casperson, who twice made jarring tackles that resulted in fumbles and Westmoor scores. "I usually go (blitz) when they run a sweep. Today it came easy, because we played as a unit."

It didn't take long before the Rams' blitzing tactics began paying off. On the game's third play, Casperson delivered a crunching tackle on Colt quarterback Rob Canepa. The ball squirted loose Westmoor's Paul Sangervasi grabbed it and rambled 30 yards into the end zone.

Early in the third quarter, Casperson again made his presence felt, darting across the line of scrimmage to cause another Camino fumble. This time the Rams' Maurice Howard recovered the ball in the end zone, giving Westmoor a 21-0 advantage.

"They were stunting on the back side," said the beleaguered Canepa, "and we didn't pick it up in time."

Despite Westmoor's impressive defensive play, Canepa had a good day through the air, completing 11 of 21 passes — including a four-yard scoring aerial to his favorite receiver, Bill Aguero.

But while Westmoor's defense was scoring two touchdowns, the Ram offense matched that output. Quarterback Tom Orloff hit Stuart Ramirez with a 10-yard TD pass in the second quarter, giving the Rams a 14-0 halftime lead, and Daren Jones scored on a nine-yard run in the final period, turning a potentially surmountable 21-7 Ram lead into a commanding 28-7 margin.

The win lifted Westmoor's NPL record to 4-2. Camino slipped to 2-3-1.

"I think we have one of the better clubs now," said Ram Coach Pete Matisi, "although it could be too late. Everybody will have two losses (except first-place Serramonte), but nothing will be decided until the final day. If Serramonte loses (to host Half Moon Bay) next week, we'll be right in there with a shot at being co-champs."

HMB can't stop Montgomery

By RICK EYMER

Carl Montgomery may not be South San Francisco High's total offense, but he sure comes close.

When he's full tilt, there's no legal way to stop him. When he gets the football, it's instant excitement.

Half Moon Bay High couldn't contain Montgomery Friday night at SSF — joining an ever-growing coterie of frustrated defenses.

Montgomery rushed for 211 yards on 29 carries to lead the Warriors to a 16-0 win over the resurgent Cougars, denying the Half Moon Bay team any chance it had for a North Peninsula League football title.

It's too bad, really, because the Cougars played some excellent football. Take away the six turnovers (four in the third quarter) and Half Moon Bay would have put points on the board. The Cougars just happened to pick the wrong Friday night to play South City at home.

'After the Westmoor game (a SSF loss), we made a few changes," said SSF Coach Mike Tenerowicz. "People were just standing around. So we decided to let the people who were ready, play. It's worked out. Everything went right tonight."

"After that Westmoor game, we got mad," Montgomery said. "A bunch of us just got together and decided it's time to play."

Play they did. The Warriors allowed nothing on the ground to Half Moon Bay, closing every lane. When the Cougars went to the air, South City had Carlos Torres or Lenamuaimalae Bird in the way of Charlie Baker's passes. Baker completed 8 of 20 passes for 133 yards, but also threw five interceptions, three to Bird.

'I was surprised by the first one," Bird said. "The quarterback was looking right at me, and all I did was reach out. The second one came because I switched with the linebacker, and got the curl on their receiver. The last one was where I was supposed to come in because he (Baker) rolled. But I figured he had to throw, and I just stayed with the receiver."

The Warriors haven't been very effective against the pass all year, but rose to the occasion when it became necessary. The SSF rush defense, on the other hand, is the best in the NPL (allowing just 274 total yards in its six games). It gave the offense something to work with.

That something was Montgomery.

On the opening drive, Montgomery carried the ball nine of the 10 plays before getting stopped on the Half Moon Bay 8-yard line in a fourth-down situation. He amassed 63 yards on that drive alone.

The next time Montgomery touched the ball, he went 78 yards after breaking a tackle behind the line for the Warriors' initial score.

"The guy (Cougar defender) tried to get my legs. I don't go down by my legs anymore," Montgomery said. "John Solaita took out the only other guy in front of me. I just kept running."

South City scored again on its next possession when Warrior QB Tom Esqueda connected with sophomore split end Byron Hector on a 63-yard pass play. It was the only pass Esqueda completed all night.

Of course, with Montgomery and Earl Powell (48 yards on 10 carries) in the backfield, there is no reason to throw the ball.

Ken Gates connected on a 25-yard field goal in the fourth quarter to finish off the Warrior scoring.

For Half Moon Bay, it was a damaging loss in an otherwise good year. The Cougars played tough, but let Montgomery off the hook too many times.

Particularly tough on defense were John Ivazes, Pat Quinlan and Phil Plath, who recovered a fumble.

Half Moon Bay just couldn't match the size and strength of the South San Francisco line.

"We beat 'em on the line," Tenerowicz said. "We were fired up and ready to play. I just wish we could play a few games over again."

Solaita was very effective for the Warrior line. He was rarely fooled by any Cougar play on defense, and on offense cleared the way for many Montgomery long-gainers. Wendall Rand and Dave Aina were also tough defensively for South City.

"It's getting fun to play again," Montgomery said. "We put in a new alignment that includes an extra tackle and I'm able to pick either way to go. We wanted this game for safety Andre Adams, who is home sick with pneumonia."

South City (3-3 league, 3-6 overall) concludes play with Oceana Friday at Terra Nova at 2:45. Half Moon Bay (2-2-2, 2-5-2) will host Serramonte, also at 2:45 p.m.

'Star Dust' instead of the National Anthem?

Le Pacini

A new sports columnist for one of the San Francisco dailies recently broke in with an account of how fed up he is with having to endure the National Anthem before every baseball game.

Some readers/friends of mine reminded me that I was doing columns on just that subject at least five years ago, and that in fact everybody did National Anthem material during the World Series when Robert Goulet screwed up the lyrics and Frank Sinatra just couldn't seem to handle any of it.

They wanted to know if I agreed with them that the guy's maiden column could have been done on a more unique subject.

My answer is that I don't comment on the choice of commentaries by colleagues, and besides, I never said that I was tired of standing for the National Anthem before every baseball game, as did my counterpart on that other newspaper.

What I said was that I was tired of HEARING the National Anthem because it is a terribly conceived song which is rarely sung well except by people with good classical voices, and that, unfortunately, there are more Goulets hanging around ball parks than opera stars. I said that I would be happy to stand before every game for a good song done well.

I hate to knock our National Anthem, but, after all, what chance did it have, starting life as a first draft poem scribbled on the back of an old letter by a lawyer, and then being fit to the melody of an old English drinking song ("To Anacreon in Heaven").

Like my colleague, however, I failed to provide what every journalism student learns in editorial or commentary writing: If you're going to criticize something, you should attempt to provide a reasonable alternative or solution.

It doesn't take any great talent or intellect just to criticize.

Now, after all these years, having been stimulated by my colleague from the other newspaper and by my readers/friends, I have seen the error of my way and been moved to offer an alternative do the playing of the Star Spangled Banner before every baseball game.

I have in mind a song which does not require a classically trained voice, which has a haunting melody and memorable lyrics that can be handled by the Goulets of the world, and which is known by everybody and loved by most.

I refer, of course, to "Star Dust."

I would be happy to stand for "Star Dust" before every baseball game, particularly if they use Artie Shaw's instrumental version.

Hoagy Carmichael has it all over Francis Scott Key.

While we're in the ball park, it's interesting to note that a couple of guys who flopped in the National League, Oscar Gamble (with San Diego) and Champ Summers (with the Reds), went back to the American League last season, from whence they came (Gamble from Cleveland, New York, Chicago; Summers, Oakland), and tore the AL up, Gamble back with the Yankees and Summers with Detroit.

Gamble, in fact, had the highest batting average in the majors (.358) but didn't have quite the number of times at bat to qualify for the batting title. He and Summers both had .610 slugging averages. To put that in perspective, only Fred Lynn had a better SA in the league, with his .637. Jim Rice and George Brett had .598 and .563, respectively. Dave Kingman, in the National League, had a .613, and the NL's leading batter, Keith Hernandez, had a .513.

I'm not saying that this PROVES that the American League is weaker than the National League, but there sure is something significant in those figures on Gamble and Summers.

Wine 'n' Herb BASTING SAUCE

Thanksgiving wine needn't be confined to the glasses on the table. One-half cup of a dry white wine (selected from our variety of less expensive wines) will make this intriguing basting sauce for roasted, or rotisseried turkey

WINE 'N HERB BASTING SAUCE: Blend ½ cup dry white wine; ¼ cup melted butter or margarine; 1 clove garlic, minced with ½ teaspoon crushed rosemary leaves. Let stand several hours at room temperature. Use as a basting sauce for rotisseried or roast turkey. Makes ½ cup or enough for one 6-12 pound turkey.
